

TUSSLE IN TULSA:

White Power Boys at Work

By Jeremy L. Quinn, publicreport.org

“We had some very bad people outside. They were doing bad things,”
President Trump told his Tulsa crowd.

Did he know some wore red MAGA caps?
Meet the Proud boys.

They aren't hard to spot in black and yellow uniforms with tattoos that say it loud and proud. Some were in Tulsa fixing for trouble Saturday after POTUS took the stage at 7pm.

SIDE NOTE: The guys below wanted people to know they were not looking for trouble. "Boogaloo Bois" are 2nd amendment buffs trying to get the word out that their Boogaloo "brand" has been co-opted by Alt-Right Agitators.

The local kid says he took his Hawaiian shirt off later because too many people were taking him for a Racist.

The Proud Boys, however, are all about white power.

Proud boy in MAGA hat preps 2 canisters of no-good just as the BLM protest approaches.

Roll out: One wears a Boogaloo shirt but not there for discourse on the 2nd amendment.

Flashing White Power signs on the front line at protesters appears more their thing.

In fairness, some protesters were indiscriminately giving the finger to every Trump supporter in sight.

However, this BLM marcher seems to know exactly who she is going for.

The BLM protest circles the block and comes back 20 minutes later.

The second time around there are some breakthroughs...

MAGA and BLM supporters joining in prayer...

And this guy forgoes his cigarette to light up the proverbial peace pipe.

Bob Marley "Is This Love" is blasted into the megaphone.

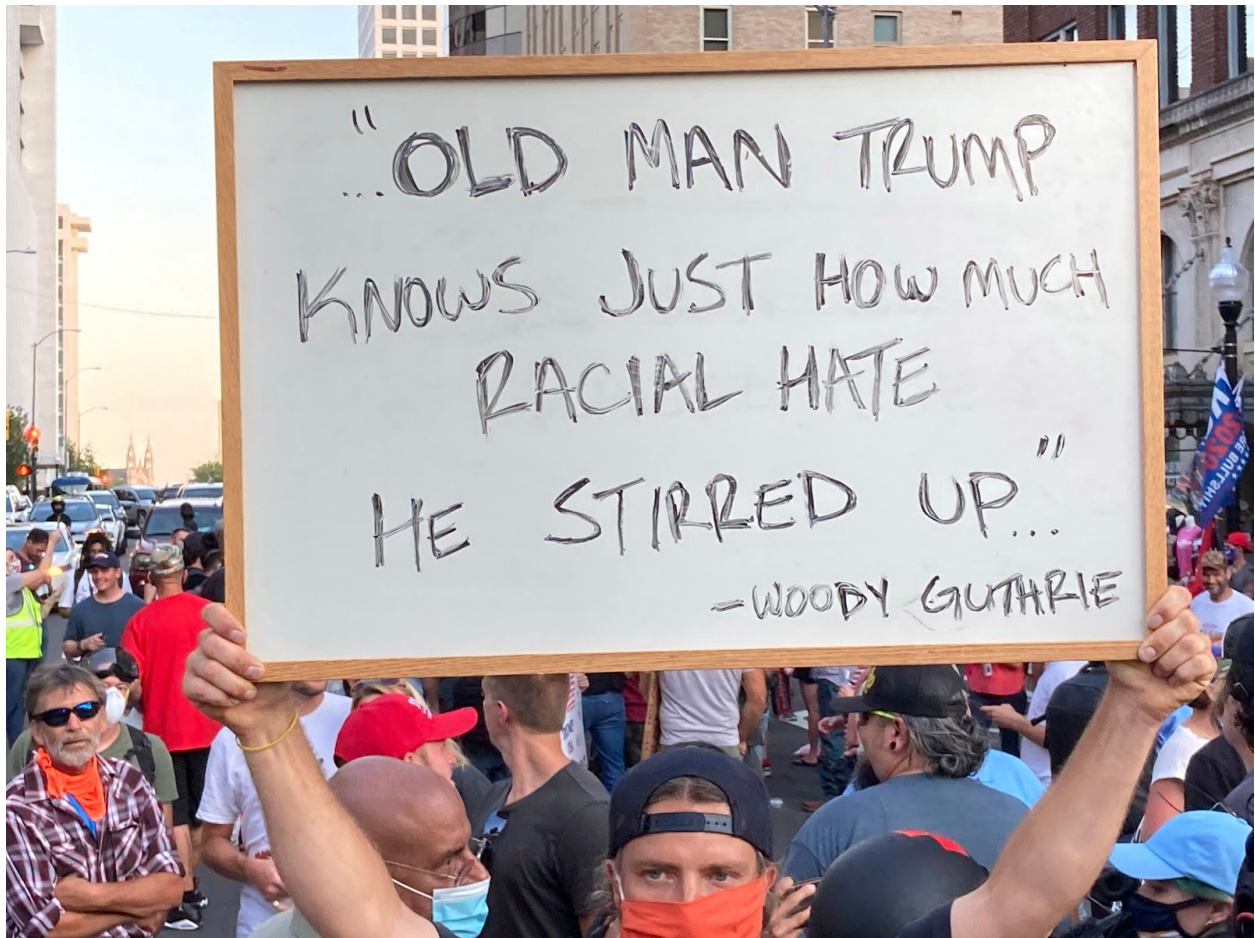

At least one Proud Boy was bobbin his head and kinda feelin it.

But the truce did not last the evening.

Within the hour Tulsa PD unblocks Boulder Avenue, sends in police vehicles and pepper bombs the MAGA folks and BLM crowd alike.

<https://youtu.be/i72tNvsO6kl>

By the end of the video, you can see PD's attempt to clear the street was soon aborted.

*...In the bloodpot of human hearts
When he drew
That color line*

Actual lyrics by Oklahoma's favorite son Woody Guthrie who was living in a New York city apartment.

The story goes Guthrie's landlord was notorious for discriminatory rental policies and even threatened the famed troubadour with eviction for criticizing his practices so openly.

Woody Guthrie's landlord was Fred Trump.

Jeremy L. Quinn is an LA based Photojournalist following Riot Instigator tactics & subculture in his on-line publication, publicreport.org

The Old Man Trump song cover

<https://youtu.be/kkwEluTFBgA>

Local news coverage of the Tulsa events for corroboration

<https://www.fox23.com/news/local/protests-planned-day-trump-rally-tulsa/FX5V4QLP5VAHBNC DHLIP7BDEPI/>